

England 2010 it's so obvious it's unreal

If Capello had chosen the right keeper (James) for the first match we would have topped the group and not played Germany yesterday. We were crucified after the first match and never arose again and so the confidence could not be restored it was just eroded more by the press in particular.

But look at main squad

Player	Comments	Club	Club Season
Green	Should not have had the pressure	West Ham	Poor side
Hart	Good keeper in poor side	Birmingham	Mid table at best

Carrick	Not always regular 1 st team and has had injury problems	Man Utd	Poor season
Joe Cole	Not always regular 1 st team just returned from injury	Chelsea	Ok season

Barry	Only just returned from injury but needs better players	Man City	Fair season
Milner	Not well with virus	Villa	Not top 3
Wright Phillips	Not always regular 1 st team	Man City	Fair season
Lennon	Not always regular 1 st team	Spurs	Not top 3
Rooney	Injured and well of his game. Had a good season himself	Man Utd	Poor season

Apart from James who is my only first choice player (and keepers are always odd ball cases) everyone else in the squad either does not play in their club first team regularly, has had indifferent season, is injured and needs better players around him at club level to excel and these are usually foreign players.

Lets get real about what we can expect from an under prepared team with a manager who cannot communicate with either press, public, FA and players properly.
